ment at Garrard Milling Co. 3-24-4t.

This sure is a queer old world. Every one in it is trying to sell something to everyone else.

Dr. Hatfield, Dentist, of Danville, is now located in Lancaster, office over Garrard Bank.

Ladies Aid Society of the Baptist Church will serve court day dinner,
April 24th, 1916.

Don't forget what your wife told you to get down town, or you may get it when you get home.

A real treat tonight at the Auditorium. This program is equal to any Chautauqua attraction.

Dr. Acton says all premises in Lancaster will be inspected the first week
in April, irrespective of person.

The Rev. F. H. Hudson the new pastor of the Presbyterian church will not be in Lancaster until the 5th day of April.

Curtain rises promptly at 7:45 tonight, 20 good voices, stringed quartet, bass soloist, comic dialogues etc. Come and help the C. E. 's.

When March leaves this week no one will regret the departure, for the month has been cold, dreary, fitful, dull, and fraught with disaster and uneasiness.

The third grandchild of President
Wilson was born Sunday and named Eleanor for the first Mrs. Wilson. The Stork and Cupid have both been in evidence in the Wilson administration.

We notice in the Lexington Leader where an entertainment was given at the Ada Meade for the benefit of Sayre College Infirmary. In the "Living Pictures", Miss Elizabeth Ford and Jimmie Loyd posed as Hope and Memory.

Because you live at the edge of town
do not think you can keep hogs after the first of May. You must be out of the town limits or you will be reported by your neighbors. Some did this last year who call themselves law abiding citizens.

We read that the road construction in Davies county will be done under con-tractive contracts with the supervision of the fiscal court, whose every act shall have the most searching publicity.
That is what honest members of the court ask and what the public may reasonably expect, the tax payers have a right to know just how their money is expended and it should be spent judiciously and in such a way as to insure good roads thruout the State.

Tell me, ye winged winds that around my pathway roar, do ye not know some quiet spot where wives clean house no more; some lone, sequestered dale, some island, oceanfront, where life is not one ceaseless war with cobwebs and with dirt; where only nature's carpet spreads beneath their tired feet, and wretched men are ne'er compelled its emerald folds to beat? The lake breeze fanned my heated face and said: "Beat on? There's no such place."

It is one thing for Americans in Mexico voluntarily to take the risk inherent in a condition of insurrection, and to suffer because of those conditions;
it is quite another to have the peace
and quiet of the American border destroyed by an invasion of our territory by these armed marauders. Not only have the American citizens a right to protection; it is the first duty of the American government to see that this protection is given in the face of such an invasion.

ture.

CORONER JONES

Judge C. A. Arnold made a popular appointment when he named Mr. Will Jones to succeed his father as coroner last Monday. Mr. Jones will fill out the unexpired term and we think he will make a good official.

RUGS AND VACUUM CLEANER

Miss Fannie Bishop, who we all know,
is asking your patronage in an advertisement in this issue. She makes rugs and also sells a vacuum cleaner to keep the rugs clean after they are made.
She has samples to show you and will be glad to have you call and see them
at her residence near the depot.

GOOD ADVICE.

Say, Mr. Sauley, while you are throwing bricks, how about the support of yourself and the Interior Journal towards the present Democratic administration at Frankfort? We have noticed that you have tried with all your power to throw cold water on everything that has been done or said by anyone connected with the present State administration. Get in line now and be a real good Democrat and quit trying to find so much fault with your brother editors
and the present State administration.
—Danville Advocate.

EVANGELIST OF EDUCATION.

President Crossfield, of Transylvania
made a most pleasing and impressive
address at the school auditorium Friday afternoon. His address was directed to the student body and parents urging preparedness for life by a broad, liberal education. His statistics proving that a college education pays were convincing. He urged the students not to be satisfied to pass the eighth grade and high school but to have the grit and determination to go thru some college.

GRATEFUL TO LANCASTRIANS.

The ever sympathetic and hospitable citizens of Lancaster are thanked by Mrs. Lula Drake, for the many courtesies shown her in her recent illness.
Mrs. Drake is now out again but takes this means to let friends know she was not unmindful of their thoughtfulness.

DR. CASEY GOES TO DANVILLE.

Dr. J. M. Casey, one of the best veterinary surgeons in the State will go to Danville to take up the practice of his father, Dr. H. L. Casey who has gone to Mexico, having volunteered his services to the war department. From the fact he speaks Spanish he will doubtless be assigned a quartermasters piece. Young Dr. Casey has made many friends in Lancaster, both he and his wife are popular here and we regret to give them up.

CELEBRATES SIXTY- FIFTH BIRTHDAY.

On last Sunday March 26th Mrs. Jno.
Davis passed her 65th milestone. The day was made memorably by a happy surprise being given her by her children and grandchildren. Mrs. Davis was surprised by a birthday dinner and several nice presents. She is a native of Garrard, having lived on White Lick forty-two years. She is a mother of fourteen children and thirty-four grandchildren. That Mrs. Davis may have many more happy birthdays is the wish of Children and Grandchildren.

WARNING FROM HEALTH OFFICER.

Dr. J. M. Acton, the local health officer, asks us to state he orders all back yards cleaned, all barns, hen houses and vaults cleaned and disinfected at once. He asked us to state that if rubbish be placed in barrels and boxes in front of premises they will be hauled away. He furthermore states that all premises will be inspected the first week in April and asks for the hearty cooperation of citizens in cleaning up and reporting nuisances of any kind.
He asks that all hogs be removed by May 1st.

CONSOLIDATED BOTTLING WORKS

The Lancaster Bottling Company
with Mr. J. S. Haselden, Proprietor, and the Crab Orchard Bottling Works, Goodwin Bros, proprietors, consolidated
this week under the name of the Consolidated Bottling Works of Lancaster.
Messrs Walter and Howard Goodwin will have charge of the new plant and will install the latest improved machinery and will cover all territory formerly covered by the two plants and in addition thereto will cover Jessamine and Fayette counties with a complete line of bottled drinks. Messrs Goodwin Bros will move to Lancaster shortly.

VALUABLE SERVICE RENDERED STATE.

There comes to our notice the last issue of The Register, of the State Historical Society, edited by Mrs. Jennie C. Morton, at Frankfort. The Register is full of historical data, among which is the Boone Records containing the Boone genealogy dating from 1686. Few people in Kentucky know and appreciate, as they should, the services rendered the state by Mrs. Morton and her sister in collecting and preserving the records of distinguished men and women who have made Kentucky famous. But for these untiring, patriotic and versatile women much valuable information would be lost to posterity. Kentucky owes them a debt of gratitude it can never repay.

"ROAD HOG" IS DISAPPEARING.

The farmer who used to hold the center of the road with his wagon heavily loaded with produce, in short,
the "road hog", is rapidly disappearing
in Kentucky, as any motorist who travels the State highways will testify.
The obnoxious automobile of a few years ago has come to be a luxury and convenience that the broad-minded farmer has been quick to appreciate, and the very fact that the farmer himself has become a motorist has removed the last vestige of envy on his part. The trials of the motorist are now the trials of the farmer, and there is a general tendency to remove all obstacles that make legitimate motoring unpleasant.

OPERATION SUCCESSFUL.

Friends of Mrs. Malcom House will be pleased to know that she is recovering nicely from an operation performed

that her entire recovery is only a matter of short duration.

SHEEP MONEY HERE

Those having claims for sheep killed by dogs during the year 1915 will be paid in full, if they will present them to County Clerk, Joe Hamilton. It isn't every year that these claims will pay dollar for dollar, but the tax received from dog owners last year amounts to about $1,000 and the total damaged allowed for sheep killed was only $619.
The balance goes into the school fund.

GRAND JURY ADJOURNS After Returning Twenty Indictments.

The grand jury finally adjourned last Friday after sitting six days and returning in all about twenty indictments.
In their final report to the court they compliment the county officials for the work they have accomplished in re-modeling the Court House and the spending of the peoples money so judiciously.
The following report, which is an interesting one, we print in full.
"To the Hon. Charles A. Hardin,
Judge, Garrard Circuit Court.

We, the grand jury impaneled by you on the 1st day of the present March Term 1916, have completed our work,
and beg to report that we investigated
all the jail cases and returned indictments, and all other irregularities were fully investigated, including the charge
made against Governor A. O. Stanley, that he looked as though he had been drinking when he passed Lancaster on the special train last November, and we find that the local minister who made this charge was entirely mistaken
in his insinuation and our investigation of the facts show that Gov. Stanley was not drunk and had not been drinking at that time.

We beg leave to report that we find that whiskey has been sold both in the County, and in the city of Lancaster and indictments have been returned in all the cases we have been able to get evidence to justify indictments. In the city of Lancaster we find that practically all the illegal sale of liquor came from a few blind tigers and the owners and operators of these are now in jail.
In the County we find very little liquor being sold. The people of Bryantsville report that very little is being sold there now, and other sections of the county is equally free from this condition.

We have been investigating violations of the lottery Statute, and recommend to the grand jury for the next term of Court that they continue the investigation to the end that there may be no violations by operating slot machines, punch boards, raffles, and all kinds of illegal drawing contests, and should there be any violations, to promptly indict and put an end to this gambling school.

We investigated the County Institutions and found them in reasonably good condition. The re-modeled Court house is an honor to the County of Garrard and the present officials of the county deserve credit for the good work
they have done in spending the peoples money so judiciously.

Nothing further having come under our observation, we beg to be, finally excused. Respectfully submitted,
W. R. Cook, Foreman.

NOTICE.

The Basin Telephone Company takes pleasure in announcing that they have installed a first class Exchange in Lancaster with a metallic circuit, with two wires for each 'phone, thereby insuring
a much better service than the old grounded wire system. The Company has spent over Six Thousand Dollars ($6000.) to make this improvement, and expects to spend more until it makes it one of the very best systems in the State of Kentucky. When the present system was installed at $1.00 per month
there were not more than forty 'phones connected through the Exchange, but now the Company has a connection of more than six hundred 'phones. In the last year material has doubled in cost and is increasing every day. Our taxes have greatly increased and the expense of operation is greater than ever before, and it is impossible to operate under the present rate and make expenses. It is, therefore, necessary that the rates on and after the first day of April, 1916, will be $1.50 for residence 'phones per month and $2.00 per month for business 'phones. We desire to express our appreciation for past patronage from the public and solicit your future patronage under the rates announced, which we assure you are reasonable and just and much lower than the rates in other towns and counties of the State of Kentucky.

A FLY CATECHISM.

1. Where is the fly born? In manure and filth.
2. Where does the fly live? In every kind of filth.
3. Is anything too filthy for the fly to eat? No.
4. (a) Where does he go when he leaves the surface closet and the manure pile and the spittoon? Into the kitchen and dining-room. (b) What does he do there? He walks on the food; the bread and fruit and vegetables. He wipes his feet on the butter and bathes in the milk.
5. Does the fly visit the patient sick with typhoid, consumption and cholera infantum? He does, and he may call on you next.
6. Is the fly dangerous? He is man's worst pest, and more dangerous than wild animals and rattlesnakes.
7. What disease does the fly carry? He carries typhoid fever, consumption and summer complaint. How? On his wings and hairy feet. What is his correct name? Typhoid fly.
8. Did he ever kill anybody? He killed more American soldiers during the Spanish-American war than did the bullets of the Spaniards.
9. Where are the greatest number of cases of typhoid fever, consumption and summer complaint? Where there are the most flies.
10. Where are the most flies? Where there is the most filth.
11. Why should we kill the fly? Because he may kill us.
12. When shall we kill the fly? Kill him before he gets wings—kill him when he is a maggot in the manure pile—kill him while he is in the egg stage.
13. How? Keep the stable dry and clean and don't allow any manure to stay on the premises longer than one week. Have all other filth and trash accumulating on your premises removed or burned at least once a week.
14. If your neighbor fails to comply with these rules and allows flies to breed on his premises to visit you, screen your doors and windows and keep them out.

POEMS THAT LIVE.

Great Issues in Little Things.
"All Heaven—her beauty, brim to brim,
Her crowns, her songs of Seraphim—
Was in that little kindly deed,
That propt a brother in his need."
"All Hell, its fang and serpent hiss,
Its treason and its last abyss—
Was in that little careless sneer
That struck a brother like a spear."
—Edwin Markham.
My Evening Prayer.
If I have wounded any soul today,
If I have caused one foot to go astray,
If I have walked in my own wilful way—
Good Lord, forgive!
If I have uttered idle words or vain,
If I have turned aside from want or pain
Lest I myself should suffer through the strain—
God Lord, forgive!
If I have craved for joys that are not mine,
If I have let my wayward heart repine,
Dwelling on things of earth, not things divine—
Good Lord, forgive!
If I have been perverse, or hard, or cold,
If I have longed for shelter in thy fold,
When thou has given me some part to hold—
Good Lord, forgive!
Forgive the sins I have confessed to thee,
Forgive the secret sins I do not see,
That which I knew not, Father, teach thou me—
Help me to live.
—Maud Battersby, in Kansas City Journal.

FISHING FEVER.

Oh, the days are getting balmy,
And the grass is growing green,
While the leaves are awakening
Fine as I have ever seen;
And I've got the same old feeling
That comes o'er me every spring
When the brook begins its calling
And the birds begin to sing.
It's a lazy-hazy feeling,
Coupled with a fervent wish,
Not to do a dog-gone blessed thing
But to lie around and fish;
Just to mosey to a quiet place
And lie around and fish;
Just to sorter shake my troubles off
And fool around and fish.
There's a silvery pool that's nidden
Well from anyone I know,
Where the sentinels are giants,
With their branches hanging low.
There no sign of sordid quest,
But the peaceful, slumbering quiet
Where a man can truly rest.
Oh, it's calling, calling,
For it knows my every wish
Is to dabble in the waters
And just fool around and fish.
Not to do another blessed thing,
But to lie around and fish—
Just to get out in God's garden once and tinker 'round and fish

REMEMBER THE GARDEN.

It is a good time to paste this caption in your hat, whether you have lordly acres in the country, or only square feet in the city or village. The season has been unfavorable this year for earlier work, but better weather and better soil conditions will surely prevail now that the vernal equinox has passed and more than the usual allotment of severe weather has gone by with it.
There are many who think it will cost but a few cents to buy the garden truck that one might grow in his garden. The convenience of having vegetables at hand when wanted and of the choice kinds and when fresh is a high consideration. Then the interest taken in the growing plants and the recreation that needed work affords, is wholesome and exhilarating. Prices have been constantly advancing and this is a consideration.
It is presumed that every one will have ordered seeds through the catalogue of some reputable house before this, but if not, many Lancaster stores keep choice assortments of the best seeds. A few years back the custom in this county was to borrow or exchange seeds with neighbors. The great seed farms of the county have such facilities for producing better seeds more cheaply than not many longer grow their own seeds.
No fertilizer is better for the garden lot than well rotten stable manure, and this should be used plentifully where the best results are to be obtained. Proper enrichment of the soil always tells in quantity and quality. The deep plowing and thorough pulverizing of the soil are to be looked after for this always means less labor in the cultivation and better results in every way.
The following further hints from a gardener of high authority, are very much to the point:
"Plant in rows the long way of the garden, not in beds, (an exception in corn, which in a single row is liable not to pollinate. Therefore plant it in blocks.)
Put the tall, dense crops—corn pole beans, etc.—at the western end, where they will shade the others the least—that is, from the late afternoon sun.
Keep together the perennial sorts and next them the all season, varieties such as carrots, salsify, parsnips, etc., and plant the others in succession in the order of time of maturing, for convenience in working the ground for a second crop.
Let us consider for a moment what is to be aimed at in a vegetable garden:
First of all, of course, is table quality, then continuity of supply—you will want as many things for as long a time each as possible—but you will need to guard very carefully against getting any one of them in such abundance at any time that it will go to waste, and thirdly, you want your garden to go as far into the winter as possible."

The soap's on the stair,

POULTRY and EGGS

MONEY IN DUCK RAISING.

When Properly Cared For Quacks Return a Good Profit.

Duck raising on the farm can be made very profitable if rightly handled. There are two branches of duck culture—meat and eggs.

The former has not been given the attention it justifies, for ducks can be raised more cheaply than any other fowl.

Ducks are very easy to raise, as they are not susceptible to many of the ailments of chickens and turkeys, nor do they require expensive houses. A low shed with tight roof and walls on three sides opening toward the south Aylesburys are the most popular breed of market ducks in France. The breed originated in England, but has been much improved. The English Aylesbury is an Albino. Its feathers are white as snow to the skin. The flesh is pink and of fine flavor. The bird shown is an Aylesbury drake.

makes an ideal duck house. The floor must be kept dry to prevent leg weakness.

If it is not agreeable to have them ranging over the entire farm a very low, hog tight fence will turn them, and they will live on the cheapest kind of food. Green grass and a little cornmeal, with some kind of insect ration or meat scraps, will keep them growing rapidly.

After corn is two feet high they can be pastured in the cornfield, where they will help to keep down the weeds without injuring the growing corn. This is better than keeping them yarded near the house without range. Plenty of drinking water in receptacles deep enough for them to immerse their heads is a necessity, but they do not require water for bathing purposes at any season of the year. However, they will have a higher percentage of fertility in eggs if allowed a swimming place during the mating season.

One of the largest and most successful duck growers uses the following formulas for feeding ducklings: For first feeds equal parts of cornmeal, middlings, crackers or stale bread and green stuff, chopped with a small handful of sand to each quart of feed; after a week, two parts cornmeal, one part each of meat, bran and middlings, with a third as much green stuff as all the rest together. After six weeks the ducks to be fattened are penned and the mash is made of two-thirds cornmeal, with bran, greens and 12 per cent of beef scraps.

The Cornell ration calls for nearly twice as much beef scrap proportionately as the above fattening mash. To fifteen pounds cornmeal are added ten pounds each of wheat middlings, wheat bran, meat scraps and alfalfa meal or chopped green feed. This is fed twice a day, with in addition a quart of corn to about thirty ducks at noon. If skim-milk is available to wet the mash half the named amount of meat scrap is needed.

Duck growers use sand, fine shell and grit, usually in the mash, but often in separate dishes. Many feed the corn under water.

Water For Hens.

The necessity of plenty of pure drinking water for the laying hens should be apparent to everybody, but we are sorry to say that many hens do not get enough water for their necessities during cold weather, says the Kansas Farmer. In many poultry houses the water freezes before the hens can get enough to drink, and they go without water for most of the day. When we consider that the contents of an egg is about 90 per cent water, it should be plain to everybody that without plenty of water a hen cannot manufacture eggs. There are water fountains with a lamp attachment that will keep the water from freezing in the coldest weather, but we do not urge these, but that fresh water should be given the hens two or three times a day. All poultry houses should be made warm enough so that water should not freeze in them.

Protein For Hens.

Hens require protein. Our common grains are deficient in protein, and it must be supplied in the form of pure beef scraps, meat scraps, milk, green cut bone, blood meal or cooked jack rabbits. All these feeds should be fresh and pure, otherwise they will cause trouble. Do not feed tankage.

POULTRY NOTES.

A cement floor is very satisfactory for a brooder house, as it is rat and mice proof and can be kept in a very sanitary condition.
All new stock should be quarantined several days before being introduced to the flocks.
Fowls do not possess the sense of smell. They have nostrils, but no noses. It is up to the keeper to detect a foul or unhealthy odor.
What the market calls a prime broiler has a good plump breast, broad back, clean yellow legs, yellow skin and small comb.
A duck's food must not be too highly concentrated for best results. Bran and green stuff are important factors in duck feeding.

KEEP TURKEYS FREE FROM INSECT PESTS

[Prepared by United States department of agriculture.]

Turkeys are very sensitive to dampness, and the young poults should always be kept dry. An open coop made of slats or lath, protected on the top from the sun and rain by tar paper, may be placed over the mother turkey just prior to the hatching of her eggs, as this will prevent her from wandering away with her young when they are hatched, the coop, hen and poults to be moved to a proper place soon after the eggs are hatched. This coop should be large enough to allow the hen to stand erect and move about. Of course, this pen or coop for the turkey hen and poults must be clean, not too close or warm and absolutely free from parasitic enemies. The poults are allowed to run from this coop part of every day when the grass is dry, but they are made to stay within at night and during wet days until old enough to wander with the mother hen and roost out on the fences and trees.

The hen turkey should be carefully dusted with insect powder before being placed upon the nest to hatch eggs, and this is followed by dusting twice a week until within two or three days before hatching. It is well to dust her again before placing her in the coop with the young poults. Never use lime or sulphur for this purpose. Nothing is better than Persian insect powder, but any good insect powder will answer the purpose that does not contain ingredients that are injurious to the eyes. If the hen has not been treated lice and mites are very often found on the young poults, and they must be freed from these enemies.

Upon taking the poults from the nest, therefore, they also should be carefully examined for lice which may be on the top of the head, under the throat, about the wings or vent. Some of the lice or mites may be gray in color and difficult to see. They may be destroyed by the use of sweet oil, rubbing a very small amount upon the head and throat. Farmers have also found that lard is efficient. Only a small amount of lard or sweet oil, however, is used, as too much is injurious. Kerosene should be strictly avoided. Insect powder is sufficient for other parts of the body.

Wide variations in the methods of feeding young poults are found. Some have been successful by feeding bread and milk in a saucer as soon as the poults will eat, while others soak bread in milk and squeeze it dry before feeding. Farmers have also found that an absolute grain diet is sufficient, while still others feed everything they imagine the poults will eat. However, it should never be forgotten that in the wild state their food was worms, seeds, bugs, etc., which they could find for themselves and which were hunted and scrambled after continually. If the keeper wishes to copy nature as nearly as possible the young poults may be given for their first meal very fine oatmeal or finely cracked corn, with a little fine grit or some kind and a very little granulated meat scrap. Some of the commercial brands of poultry food are also good. Clean water of course should be convenient.

Care of the Incubator.

Keeping the temperature as even as possible is one of the first essentials with the incubator chicks. Sudden changes from heat to cold and over-feeding are causes of bowel trouble.

DON'T GO TO BED WITH COLD FEET

Says: "Often Brings On Attacks Of Acute Rheumatism."

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and people who are subject to attacks of rheumatism should never go to bed with cold feet.

A whole lot is being said about taking salts and effervescent tablets for rheumatism and sciatica, but those who suffer sharp twinges and painful swollen joints need something powerful to overcome their piteous suffering.

Any broad-minded druggist will tell you that one-half teaspoonful of Rheuma taken once a day is driving more rheumatism out of afflicted people than all the salts on earth. Right in this neighborhood R. E. McRoberts and all druggists sell large quantities of it, and it's the surest and most inexpensive remedy—about 50 a bottle. 3-23-2t

Debts Easily Made.

The use of motor vehicles, which is becoming so general is causing a demand for better roads, and this use wears out the roads rapidly. What is Central Kentucky going to do to satisfy this demand? Shall the people vote a large bond issue, as is proposed in some of the Blue Grass Counties? Before this step is taken it would be wise for the people to consider the question well. It has been only a few years since the public took over the turnpikes at a consideration so inadequate that the roads were almost a gift to the public from private owners. The turnpike tax was immediately placed to the limit permitted to be collected under the Constitution, and yet, the roads are no better than when they were taken over by the public. Why, then, vote bonds to build new turnpikes when the available tax in the past has been insufficient to maintain the roads, which were practically given to the public in most of the Blue Grass Counties? In our judgment and according to our observation the fiscal authorities in this past have been so poor that the public has not gotten the benefit of the available funds to keep in repair these macadam roads. What the future may develop along this line we can not predict, but there does not appear to us any good reason why a large bond issue should be voted upon these counties, which already have more macadam roads built than they have been able to maintain from available tax funds. What these Counties need are better road systems with more competent persons in authority to handle the work. We need to get more for the money that is appropriated for the road purposes than we have been getting is the past. Lincoln County is about to take a second vote upon a proposed bond issue for a large sum, and there is some talk for such a move in this County. We would like to see a better showing with the money available for road purposes before a step is taken to lay such a heavy burden upon the tax payers for additional funds.

Those who believe that peace in Europe is among the possibilities of the next few months fail to take into account the internal condition of Germany and the probable effect upon the House of Hohenzollern of a peace that does not at least bring to Germany large war indemnities to help defray the cost of the war.

The course of public opinion in Germany in regard to the submarine controversy with the United States is most instructive upon this point. Plainly the responsible rulers of Germany did not want a conflict with this country, but a large number of the German people were violently opposed to any concession, and the possible dangers of running counter to public opinion caused the German Foreign Office to hesitate repeatedly in regard to the reasonably demands of the United States.

It is clear, therefore, that, if the rulers of Germany hesitate to make a concession to a country with whom Germany is not at war, they would be far more indisposed to yield to the only peace terms they could possibly hope to get from the nations Germany has now been fighting for nearly two years.

Duncan in CHALICE OF COURAGE, and on every night you will see good, new-up-to-date pictures. TRAGIC DEATHBY DROWNING.*Mr. Dave Anderson Loses Life In Sugar Creek.

The death of Mr. Dave Anderson, which occurred Monday about 12 o'clock was doubly sad because it was so sudden and so tragic. Indeed it has seldom been our duty to record so tragic a death and a dark gloom spread over our entire community when it was told from one to another that Dave Anderson had drowned in Sugar Creek at the mouth of Comley's branch, near his home and four miles from Lancaster, while attempting to cross with wagon and team.

A heavy rain, somewhat in the nature of a cloud-burst, had caused the stream to rise past fording, which Mr. Anderson seemed unaware of. As soon as the team plunged in, the wagon bed was swept from beneath him and he was carried under by the current and appeared above the water only one time. His body was recovered a few hours later, near the home of Mr. George Newton Ray, two miles from where the accident occurred. The body was taken to Mr. Ray's home, where an inquest was held by Coroner W. L. Jones, bringing out the facts as stated above.

Mr. Anderson was born in Garrard County 56 years ago. He was a son of Mr. William Anderson, his mother died when he was a mere youth. Besides his wife, who was Miss Isabelle Lackey, he leaves three children, John L. Jr., Sue Anna, and Mrs. Walter Turner, he also leaves two brothers, Messrs. John L. Anderson, of Washington, D. C., and Clay Anderson of Kansas, and two half brothers, Messrs. Jones and Ozz Anderson, of this county, three half sisters, Mrs. George Brown, of Preachersville, Mrs. Miley Walker and Mrs. Hattie Prather, of Buckeye. He is also survived by an aged stepmother, Mrs. Victoria Anderson.

The death of Mr. Anderson was seemingly one of life's tragedies against which no human provision can be made. Such a death should teach us the uncertainty of life and also teach us to live so that when our summons comes to join the innumerable throng who have gone before we will be found ready. Mr. Anderson was a member of the Christian church and possessed a most kindly and gentle disposition and counted his friends by his acquaintances. At such times words seem empty things. The sympathy and sorrow are very real and the Record voices the sentiment of the community in profound sympathy for the bereaved family.

Funeral services were conducted by Eld. F. M. Tindler followed by interment in Lancaster cemetery.

IRVINE COLEMAN RUCKER.

"And the finger of death touched him and he slept." Yes, the sweet spirit of Irvine Coleman Rucker is now with Jesus in glory, having commenced his journey heavenward when he was only eighteen years old, being converted and joining the M. E. church at Texas, Madison Co., which is now called College Hill, during a protracted meeting held by Bro. E. M. Cole. Since that time his face has been Zionward, living a consistent christian life. He passed away on March 24th at his home in Paint Lick, Mr. Rucker was born in Clark county Ky., in 1847 at Vienna. He married Miss Sarah Bird Griggs, of Madison Co. To them were given fourteen children, eight boys and six girls. Four of the boys are still living and five of the girls who will console and care for their devoted mother. The boys are Messrs. Jonas Rucker of Richmond, Hume Rucker of Louisville, Roger and James Rucker of Lexington, Mrs. Minnie Williams of Indianapolis, Mrs. Lucy Conn, of Lancaster, Mrs. Eliza Treadway, of Paint Lick, and Miss Chastine who is with her mother.

To be in this christian home and witness the love shown between husband and wife and the devotion of parent and children was truly a delight. He will be missed in his community for he was a public spirited citizen, being a man of strong convictions and good judgment, he will be missed in his church for he was devoted to it and a christian worker, he will be missed in his home for he was a kind and loving husband and devoted father. May those left emulate the example of this man of God.

THREE WILLS PROBATED

In the County Court last Monday, three wills were probated by Judge C. A. Arnold. That of Mrs. Elizabeth Walker, dated March 4th 1911, asks that her indebtedness be paid out of her personality and that her real estate be valued by three disinterested parties and equally divided among her five children, share and share alike. If however at any time that a majority of the children desire, the real estate is to be sold by the Executor and the proceeds divided equally. Her son Woods Walker is named as executor without bond.

The will of J. W. Hamilton leaves his entire estate to his widow, Mrs. Naomi Hamilton, but first ask that all his debts be paid in full and all notes, bonds, securities be sold and re-invested in real estate, his wife to have the entire proceeds derived from such estate and at her death to go equally to their two children. The will was dated October 1915 and names Mrs. Naomi Hamilton Executrix without bond.

The will of Al Dunn, colored, leaves his entire estate to his brother, Adam Dunn and his wife. This document was dated April 3rd, 1912.

DISTINGUISHED GUEST

Our city was honored for a short while last Friday by a visit of President Crossfield, of Transylvania University, Lexington, who addressed the students of the Graded School, on "Preparedness, or Why go to College?" Dr. Crossfield is one of the leading educators of the state and his remarks were both interesting and entertaining.

ALMOST IN THE RING

Senator Chas. Montgomery, of Casey and Col. T. L. Carpenter, of Lincoln, were here Monday meeting the good democrats of the county.

Senator tells us he will announce his candidacy for Congress from this district in a few days and is going to win. He has a lot of friends here who are of the same opinion.

IMPORTED HEMP SEED

Mr. I. M. Shely, of Chicago, arrived in the city last Monday and is located temporarily at the Kengarian hotel. Mr. Shely is no stranger here and his friends are always glad to see him. He is here primarily to get the farmers to grow the cultivated hemp seed and is furnishing a superior quality of imported seed, to those who are interested and will pay a liberal price for this cultivated seed in the fall. Read his advertisement in this issue of the paper.

CAMPAIGN OF USEFULNESS.

After some months of dormancy the Civic Department of the Womans Club will awaken for another campaign of usefulness. It made itself felt in an effective way last season and hopes to double its strength and enthusiasm this year. They will make an active fight for cleanliness of streets, back-yards, public square and also a systematized campaign against the deadly fly.

They will also see that the hog law is enforced this year. So those having hogs in the town limits had best make arrangement to have them out of town by May 1st or they will be reported.

The Womans Club is filled with enthusiasm for making Lancaster a better place in which to live and bring up a family, and the members are determined as never before to help the officers enforce the laws that govern us.

DANVILLE OPENING

Handsome New Welsh and Wiseman Building Of Danville Will Be Formally Opened Saturday.

The Welsh and Wiseman Company Monday night moved their stock of goods into the new modern store building, corner Third and Main streets. This is one of the most complete mercantile establishments in the south. In completeness, convenience it compares favorably with anything in Louisville or Lexington. A Record representative was shown through the establishment Tuesday and was agreeably surprised to find such an excellent building fully equipped with furniture and fixtures of the best mahogany, as are also the woodwork in the elaborate show windows. In the mezzanine floor are the cashier's desk, private offices, ladies rest room and general offices. This store consists of a most complete basement and three floors.

Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the doors will be thrown open to the public, and it goes without saying that Danville and all surrounding towns will be fully represented. A new stock of goods entirely in keeping with the building is being opened up and will be placed on sale according to their advertisement you will see in this issue of the Record.

PRESIDENT OF WHITTLE RESORT SPRINGS HERE.

Mr. O. F. Whittle, representing Knoxville's First Trade Trip, and President of the Whittle Springs company, which operates a summer resort at Whittle Springs near Knoxville, was a visitor here this week, making arrangements for the visit of the Knoxville business men who will reach here April 12th at 7:45 A. M.

Mr. Whittle came here for the purpose of discussing with the local committee the question of the program to be followed upon the arrival of the visitors aboard the Trade Trip Special. Mr. Whittle stated that the Trade Trip committee, comprised of men representing every business organization in Knoxville, decided on this move to get in touch with our people here as a means of impressing upon all of us that the trip is being undertaken by Knoxville's business men rather for the purpose of SEEING than of SELLING our folks. Mr. Whittle stated that the business men of Knoxville were just as anxious to buy what we had to sell them as they were to ship what they had to sell us. In other words, it is more or less of a "bartering" trip.

The personnel of the Trade Trip Party will consist of men, like Mr. Whittle, who are owners or managers of the business houses which they represent. Mr. Whittle stated that he had arranged to furnish complimentary to the Trade Trip committee Whittle Springs water exclusively on the "special".

The local committee is leaving no stone unturned to show the Knoxville party that they are willing to meet them half way in the effort being put forth to establish closer business and social relations between Knoxville business men and our own.

MORNINGS AREHAPPIEST HOURS*GET THE SPIRIT OF THE EARLY DAY INTO YOUR BEING.

Are you bright and happy in the mornings?

Catarrh is the great American ailment. Its effects are far more general than usually are understood. Catarrh of the stomach and kidneys is a most frequent cause of chronic dyspepsia and Brights disease. Catarthal conditions in the nose and throat in many cases, leads to deafness.

Even the lungs are affected because catarthal inflammation finds an open way to the lung substances through the bronchial tubes.

If you are not bright, cheerful and refreshed in the mornings, catarrh probably is the cause.

The mental and physical condition of catarth sufferers is pitiable but it is surprising how many people suffer from catarth when they fully believe something else is the cause.

Catarth can be easily detected. Some of its commonest symptoms are; dull, throbbing headaches, watery eyes, constant sniffling, dropping of mucus into the throat at night and awakening choked and half nauseated, sleeplessness, dizziness, fullhead, stopped up nasal passages, dryness of the membranes, pains in the stomach, side and kidney region, faulty digestion, bad breath and coated tongue.

Tanlac was created particularly to combat catarth. Thousands are testifying daily that Tanlac has fulfilled its mission.

Tanlac may be obtained in the nearby cities. Paint Lick, J. N. Metcalf; Bay-antville, Becker & Ballard; Little Hickman, Collier and Bruner; Berea, S. E. Welch; Stanford, Penny's Drug Store; Junction City, Reynolds and Evans; Richmond, H. L. Perry & Son; Crab Orchard, Lyne Bros; Burgin, G. T. Schoolfield; Danville, John S. Wells; R. E. McRoberts, Lancaster.

ATTENTION.DRUGGISTS--STORE KEEPERS.

An exclusive Tanlac agent is wanted in every town, village and cross road in this county. For particulars and advertising plans address Cooper Medicine Company, 3-8-4t. Dayton, Ohio.

GLAD TO BE HERE

Mr. Jim Layton, one of the cleverest fellows that ever left the county, came down from his home in Cincinnati last week and was shaking hands with his friends here Monday. He looks the picture of health and tells us he never felt better.

WAR HITS NEWS-PAPERS HARD.

War directly or indirectly is given as the reason for the enormous increase in the publisher's bills. And war seems likely to continue for some time, so too the market skyrocketing promises to go to heights even beyond the present astounding prices. Nowadays it is next to impossible to obtain market quotations for even so short a time ahead as "next week".

Only last week paper, which then was 8 per cent higher than it was a year or so ago, jumped to a 10 per cent increase. No pulp is coming into the manufacturers. Mills that not so long ago were selling by the tons are now filling orders for pounds. Rags, which are being bought up by the powder manufacturers eagerly and are needed also by paper manufacturers in a cleaned and more or less sterilized form, are a necessity in the mechanical departments of newspapers. The price of rags has jumped just 100 per cent, or from 3 cents a pound to 6 cents. Writing paper is an important item in a publisher's paper bill, and it is worth noting that this item has gone up 25 per cent.

As an ink manufacturer explained a day or two ago, the acids and dyes and everything else used in the colored inks especially have exploded from 300 to 3,000 per cent in a jiffy, once the imports from Germany had been blocked. Blues that cost 58 cents before the war now cost $14 and $15 a pound, with increases in yellow also all the way up to 3,000 per cent. And, what is more of moment, the manufacturers of inks fear that prospects of filling demands in the future look doubtful.

Inks have more than doubled in price, with an increase on every quotation for intaglio section inks going on steadily. Even the common black inks are affected because the rubber manufacturers are corraling as much of the carbon as they can and using it in place of zinc and lead, a detail which will account for the preponderance of rubber goods having a black cast, which shoppers soon will find on the market in place of the white cast rubber they've been accustomed to see in the shops.

Type foundries have increased prices 20 per cent, and no letup in the booming in sight. Gum arabic, necessary to the making of matrices in printing plants, has jumped 100 per cent. And wrapping paper, used in the circulation departments by the tons, costs twice as much as it did before the war, with wrapping rope of sisal from Yucatan and jute wrapping ropes and twines from Calcutta now selling at an increase almost as great.

KNOXVILLE BUSINESS MEN

TO BRING ALONG MOTION PICTURE CAMERA TO TAKE PICTURES OF SPECIAL HERE.

WANT EVERYBODY TO BE IN IT Pictures Will Be Shown Here Later As Souvenir Of Trip.

That Knoxville business man never let an opportunity pass to please their friends and customers, is shown by the recent announcement that they have, at great expense, engaged a well-known motion picture maker to accompany them on their First Trade Trip, to make pictures of the "special" from the time it leaves the depot at Knoxville until it returns.

Pictures will be made of the crowds that greet the Trade Trip Party at every stop of the train, and many pictures will be taken of the streets and business houses in cities visited. Many pictures will be made here, and the Knoxville party has expressed a wish that as many people arrange to be in the picture as possible, as the pictures will not only be shown in Knoxville, but will also be shown here and in all of the other towns visited, as well.

As the trade trip special will stop in 43 towns in Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia and North Carolina, the pictures will prove a big advertisement for Lancaster if a good showing is made. Everybody should turn out and give the "special" a rousing welcome, and make the best possible showing for our town.

The picture, which will be between two and three thousand feet in length, will be shown here in a few weeks after the pictures are made. The exact date and place will be announced later.

TO SAVE AN EDITOR.

Here is a minister who appreciates the editor. At a recent editorial convention he offered the following toast: "To save an editor from starvation, take his paper and pay for it promptly. To save him from bankruptcy, advertise in his paper liberally. To save him from despair, send him every item of news of which you can get hold. To save him from profanity, write your correspondence plainly on one side of the sheet and send it in as early as possible. To save him from mistakes, bury him. Dead people are the only ones who never make mistakes."

BRIDES-MAID OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN DEAD.

Mrs. Mary S. Woodrow, aged 98, died last week in Versailles. Mrs.
Woodrow was a cousin of Mrs. Abraham Lincoln and was a bridesmaid at the wedding of the President and Mary Todd. She was a sister of John T.
Stuart, who was Lincoln's first law partner. She was born in Fayette county near Walnut Hills, and was the daughter of Rev. Robert Stuart, who was one of the first professors of old Transylvania University. She was married many years ago to Joshua Woodrow, of Hillsboro, Ohio, and made her home there until his death, when she came to Versailles to make her home with her niece. She had no surviving children.

AN UMBRELLA.

To place your umbrella in a rack indicates that it is about to change owners; an umbrella carried over a woman, the man getting nothing but the drippings of the rain signifies courtship; when the man has the umbrella and the woman the drippings, it indicates marriage; to carry it at an angle under the arm signifies that an eye is to be lost by the man who follows you; to put a cotton umbrella by the side of a silk one means "exchange is no robbery;" to lend an umbrella may be interpreted, "I am a fool," to carry an umbrella just high enough to tear out men's eyes and knock off men's hats signifies, "I am a woman."

ministrations to me in my recent great

CARD OF THANKS.

To the friends and neighbors who came to us in the bereavement of our husband and father and contributed all that human kindness could suggest we return heartfelt thanks. May God reward you with friends as true in hours
of need, when you grasp for the banished hand or for the voice that is hushed and still.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Do not fail to make allowance for slight exaggeration when hearing of pranks in school. Do not accuse the teacher of undue favoritism. If she is kinder to one child than to another it's because that one does not take advantage of the liberty allowed him. This is simple justice. Do not tell the teacher that Willie will not lie. She may know better. Do not condemn the teacher without a fair hearing. This is accorded to even the worst criminal.
There are usually two sides to the story.

President W. G. Frost, of Berea College, has been appointed State Patron
by a national organization endeavoring to improve character education in the public schools. Prof. Roscoe Gilmore Stott of Eastern State Normal, is code writer for the organization. A prize of $5,000 has been offered to the person writing the best code for character instruction in the school, and Kentucky competitors may send their communications to either President Frost or Prof.
Stott.

Something About Truth.
Truth is something infinitely greater and more comprehensive than mere fact; it is anything which records,
reflects or symbolizes not only life
as it is, but life as it ought to be, and as hopeful faith believes it sometime, somewhere will be—the opening of a window toward Heaven.—Caryl B.
Storrs.

Anthrax Father of All Germs.

The anthrax germ is the father of all germs since it was the first discovered by the weak microscopes of half a century ago. That was because the germ was so big. The microscopes could not show the smaller germs. It was the anthrax germ, therefore, that led to the development of the microbe theory which caused such an advance in medicine.

Was Thinker, Not Talker.

Customer—"I've been cheated. I thought you said this parrot was a remarkable bird." Bird Fancier—"Yes, sir. What I said was that he had been brought up in the company of learned men, and was full of philosophy and scholarship. Of course, he don't talk. More idle words have no attraction for him. But he's a remarkable parrot because he's a great thinker."

Problem Balked Philosopher.

It is curious to recall that Herbert Spencer hoped to take out a patent for a "flying machine." Only, he had giving up as hopeless the problem since solved by the aeroplane, regarding it as impossible to carry the motor-engine and motor-power required for a long flight. His idea was suggested by the principle of the kite, and involved the drawing through the air of an inclined plane by iron wire-cords attached to an endless wire rope moved by stationary engines.

Bleucher 46158, record 2:29 1/2, trial mile 2:14 1/2, half in 1:06, last quarter in 32 seconds, is a handsome seal brown horse, and will weigh 1100 pounds. He greatly resembles his good sire Silent Brook and is out of Clayo, by the great Futurity sire Moko.
Foreign demand has exhausted the supply and we may expect better prices for our horses in the future. Our advice to mare owners is to breed their mares and to breed them to stallions of merit and proven worth as sires. Bleucher is just the type to produce the colts that will supply the demand. His colts have proven fine, with nice head and neck and plenty of bone and conformation.

On his dam's side he traces to Montrose who was champion for eighteen years. This horse has the finest shoulders and withers that I have ever seen, splendid bone, short back. His neck, head and ears are in the right place. He also has the best shoulder motion and hock action of any horse that I have ever had in my stable.

ALL FASCINATED BY WOMAN'S HAIR.

Nearly every woman who has an ordinary head of hair can by giving it just a little attention have luxuriant hair, soft, fluffy and radiantly beautiful. It's a good thing to know this because hair preparations that put life and lustre into dull looking hair are scarce, but it is a fact known to nearly every druggist in America that Parisian Sage, a delightfully clean and refreshing tonic not only will make your hair look 100 per cent better but will quickly stop it from falling, rid it of dandruff and scalp itch.

It's well worth a trial and R. E. McRoberts who disposes of a great quantity of it will tell you so, and will refund your money if it isn't all you expect.

Rank Foolishness.

You occasionally see it stated that colts do not result from cold weather. That is rank foolishness. Were it true colts would be as prevalent in midsummer as in midwinter. The microbes that cause colts flourish in damp, cold weather. To get rid of a cold take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is effective and is highly recommended by people who have used it for many years as occasion required, and know its value. Obtainable everywhere. 1-m

We regret to record the death of one of Paint Lick's most estimable citizens, that of Mr. I. C. Rucker, whose death came suddenly and unexpectedly Tuesday evening of paralysis, although he had been in declining health for several months. Mr. Rucker was born in Clark county in 1847. With the exception of a few years spent in Lancaster he lived the greater portion of his life at Paint Lick. In 1867 he was united in marriage to Miss Bird Griggs, who together with five sons, Messrs. Jonas Rucker of Richmond, James and Roger Rucker of Lexington, Hume Rucker of Louisville, O. C. Rucker of this place and four daughters, Mrs. C. E. Williams of Madison Indiana, Mrs. James Conn of Lancaster, Mrs. G. M. Treadway and Miss Chastine Rucker survive him. For fifty years he was a faithful consistent member of the Methodist church and ever delighted in the service of God's House. Funeral services were held at the home Sunday afternoon by his pastor, Rev. Carmichael assisted by Rev. W. M. Eldridge and Rev. C. S. Ellis, with interment in the Lancaster cemetery.

Sign of Good Digestion.

When you see a cheerful and happy old lady you may know that she has good digestion. If your digestion is impaired or if you do not relish your meals take a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach, improve the digestion and cause a gentle movement of the bowels. Obtainable everywhere.

Invention of American Enables Wounded to Write and Do Other Things.

Dr. Max Kohn of Berlin, who lost his left arm in battle, recently delivered a lecture in Vienna before a large gathering of physicians to demonstrate the wonders of the Carnes artificial arm. This ingenious invention is named after its inventor, an American.

Dr. Kohn showed the physicians how the Carnes arm took the place of the lost member in most wonderful fashion. He showed how the arm can turn and twist, how it can reach in any direction and take hold of any object with the same facility as any natural arm and hand. The physician also demonstrated to his audience how readily he could open and close an umbrella, the facility with which he could write with the artificial member, put the hand in his pocket and take out loose change, put his gloves on, etc. He could take off his coat or put it on without assistance.

Dr. Kohn showed the simplicity of the mechanism which controlled the movements of the hand and fingers and said with an artificial arm of this type no inconvenience or annoyance was experienced. The invention is being used to replace amputated arms and hands in the German hospitals, and the results have been remarkable. Men who otherwise would have been afflicted for life now can attend to their work and business as before and can even return to the front if need be.

Mr. Ellis Holmes, of McKinneysburg, Ky., who six years ago had been at the tubercular hospital in Cincinnati four months, and was given to understand he could not live, came to his home at McKinneysburg despondent and out of hope, expecting nothing but to die.

Mr. Orie McKinney persuaded him to get one gallon of Smith's Lung Tonic. Six months thereafter he was well and his brother says today that he has never been troubled with his lungs since. Numerous cases have been cured in this county with like results.

Hank Elwood's Conversion

By EDITH V. ROSS

Hank Elwood one evening stood at the door of his house looking out on his broad acres. There were the farm, well stocked, and crops just springing from the ground; there was the house, well furnished for one of its kind. But Hank was the only person in it.

Hank had always so far fought shy of women. He was not a student of feminine human nature, and he thought all single women did little else than get snarled for unmarried men. But he felt lonely.

"I'd ought to have a woman," he said to himself. "But what am I going to find one? Besides, women are a rantankerous lot, and I dunno but if I should get one I'd wish I hadn't."

But Hank was desperate. He went down to Mrs. Blakeley's, an excellent friend of his, and said to her:

"Moll, I want you to find me a wife. I'll tell you just what kind of a gal I want. She must be—"

"Hank," interrupted his friend, "if I'm going to recommend a gal to you you'd better take her on my say so. You don't know anything about women."

"Don't I? I know enough to keep clear of one of the kind to slobber all over a man before she's married and after the knot's tied to jump on him and boss the whole job."

"Oh, you do, do you? Well, I'll tell you what I'll do: I'm expectin' a niece of mine from the east to visit me next week. You kin come in here and much as you like while she's here, and much as you can get her. She wants to get married powerful bad. But it's my opinion you'd better let me pick out a woman for you and go in blind on my recommendation."

"Reckon I'll come in and see your niece. If nothin' comes of it mebbe I'll try your plan."

When the niece came she proved to be a strapping lass, with a pair of rosy cheeks, and she made a dead set for Hank. Her voice was a low contralto, sometimes with the tone of a man's. She was rather awkward, and her hair was short, which she explained by stating that she had had a fever and it had all come out.

"What do you think of her?" asked Mrs. Blakeley.

"I think she'd make a good farmer's wife," replied Hank. "She isn't one of the kind to sit round and look purty. Them hands of hers are specially fitted for milkin', and washin' dishes wouldn't spoil 'em."

"How about her disposition?"

"I hain't had time yet to make no observations as to that, but she seems to be good natured enough. What do you think of her?"

"I? I thought you was to decide the matter for yourself, you know so much about women. What use would it be for me to tell you she wasn't the kind of a woman you want? Would you pay any attention to me?"

Hank admitted that he had confidence in himself in knowing what he liked and what he didn't like, but if there was any defect in the girl he saw no reason why he should not be informed of it.

"There's nothin' the matter with her, so far as I know," was the noncommittal reply. But Hank did not consider it noncommittal. He made up to Lizzie, as her aunt called her, and did a bit of courting, but he found her coy and not disposed to permit him to be familiar.

"She's the gal for me," said Hank to the aunt one day. "I tried to kiss her, and she wouldn't let me do it. There's safety in that kind of a gal. After a man's married to her he don't always feel unsartin about her every time a good lookin' man comes round."

"That's all bosh," said his friend.

Hank, finding that Lizzie would not permit courting, assumed that he must first make his intentions known. He was in a hurry to get some one into his home and was much pleased with her. One evening he called at Mrs. Blakeley's. The aunt was washing dishes and the niece was wiping them. On Hank's arrival Lizzie threw down her dishcloth, took off her kitchen apron and joined the visitor on the porch. Mrs. Blakeley went on with her work. Lizzie had been with Hank a few minutes when her aunt heard her break out into a guffaw.

"Aunt Molly," she cried, "what dy'e think? Mr. Elwood wants me to marry him."

The woman went outside. Lizzie had lifted her skirts above her knees, showing a pair of trousers under them, and was responding to the proposal by a clog dance.

"Reckon you don't know so much about women, Hank, as you think you do. Lizzie is a boy."

Whereupon Lizzie took off the rest of her feminine apparel and appeared as a youth of eighteen.

Hank stood looking on this exhibition for a few minutes appalled. Then turning on his heel he went back to his farm.

It was weeks before he came to see his friend Moll Blakeley again; then he said to her:

"I give in, Moll. I don't know nothin' about women. I'm powerful lonesome at the farm. Get me a wife."

"I don't need to get you one. There's Sallie Perkins, the best woman I know. Has been wantin' you for a couple o' years."

"How do you know that?"

"No matter how I know it. If you want a mighty good wife go for her."

Hank took his friend's advice and has been very happy ever since.

The Heroine Of My Story

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

Sitting at my desk one balmy spring morning, rather than work I looked out through the open window.

At a window opposite a woman perhaps midway between twenty-five and thirty sat at a typewriter writing letters from stenographic notes. She was dressed in mourning.

A sign of widowhood furnished food for a story that I was weaving, with her for the heroine. She was refined looking and comely. Quite likely her husband had left her in poverty, and she was eking out a miserable existence by hammering a typewriter from morning till night. I wondered if the sleek looking man I saw in an adjoining room, who seemed to be the manager, had a wife and if he would not fall in love with the widow and make her comfortable. But when he arose from his desk and stood with his hands in his pockets looking out through the window I changed the direction of my romance and hoped if he did fall in love with the widow she would refuse him, because I did not like the expression on his face. There was something malignant in it.

My story seems to be coming out as I first planned it. While I was dreaming this afternoon, instead of attending to business, as I should have done, the man in the next room to the widow tapped a bell. The young widow arose and, taking up her stenographic implements, disappeared to reappear in his room. Taking a seat beside him, she took down several different dictations. Then when she was about to leave he said something to her that caused her to resume her seat.

From his averted gaze and the expression on the man's face I knew that he was making love to her. And I also knew from something I knew not what—but any woman will understand what I mean—that there was no response to what he was saying. When he ceased to speak she arose and he took her hand, but she gently drew it away and, without a word, left the room. At her own window she faced me just long enough for me to see that she was not pleased.

I have now been watching the widow for a week, and it is evident that she can marry any of the men connected with the office she chooses, for they all seem to be in love with her. I don't blame them, for if I were a man, and not miserably poor, as I am, I would march straight over to the office where she works and propose to her myself.

What troubles me is that she won't do what I want her to do. I have heard from authors that their characters are at times very obstinate, and now I find a case in point. There is a man who I think would make her a good husband. He comes in to the office evidently on business and never fails to get a few words with her. She treats him with great consideration, but I can see from the expression of his face—he always faces the window when he talks to her—that her replies to what he says are disappointing.

This morning there was a scene between the manager and the widow. He said something to her that sent her out of his room. He followed her to her desk, where she was putting on her wraps, and he doubtless apologized, for she took off her hat, which she had put on, and was evidently pacified.

It is my opinion that the reason the widow won't marry any of her suitors is that her heart is buried in a grave. I wish she would marry my favorite, but she evidently gives him no encouragement. He stood in one of the windows facing me this morning, and I so longed to give him encouragement to persevere that I looked it, and I'm afraid I snarled.

I am very much displeased with myself. The widow's suitor at whom I smiled encouragement came into the office this morning, and I'm sure he made a pretense of business in order to see me. The manager brought him up to me and introduced him, saying to me that he had recommended me to the man as one who would do some work for him. The stranger was very polite and has a winning way.

I shall never make a novelist, that's certain. My story of the widow turned out entirely different from what I intended. It was all her fault. The man I wanted her to marry she would not have, and what do you think? I had to console him by marrying him myself. It seems that I was entirely mistaken in my assumptions with regard to him. He was a cousin of hers, though more like a brother. He says that he one day caught sight of me at my window and after that used to come to see his cousin in order to see me. I tell him I can't swallow that.

But the widow. Fate was doing things without my knowledge. One morning a man in the uniform of an officer of merchant marine burst into her room and caught her in his arms. She seemed to be in a swoon for a time; then she cried over him and caressed him, and I was sure he was her husband come to life.

And so he was. His vessel had been wrecked somewhere on the African coast, and all on board had been either lost or made slaves. It was a long while before he attained his liberty, to learn that he had been reported dead.

That was the last I saw of his wife as a typewriter, though now we are great friends.

BILLY SUNDAY NO PACIFIST.

God is a god of war as well as of peace. We must fight as well as pray. If it hadn't been for war we would be singing "God Save the King" instead of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." If it hadn't been for war the blood-hounds would be chasing the black men through the swamps and canebrakes today; if it hadn't been for war Spain would still be tearing at the heart of Cuba; if it hadn't been for war the flag of Mexico would be waving over Texas, New Mexico, Nevada and California. Yes, I believe in preparedness; I believe in battleships and submarines, and if any of the nations across the sea should care to find out whether the American people believe in the Monroe doctrine let them start something. If they do I would like to be colonel of a regiment.—Billy Sunday, the Evangelist.

FULFILLS LINCOLN'S PROMISE

Navy Department to Take Monitor Survivor Through Canal.

President Lincoln's promise, made more than a half century ago to John Driscoll of Hampton, Va., said to be the oldest living survivor of the battle between the Monitor and the Merrimack during the civil war, is about to be carried out by the navy department.

After the naval engagement President Lincoln summoned the crew of the Monitor, of which Driscoll was a member, to Washington. He thanked them for their valor and said if any of them ever wanted a favor it would be only necessary to ask for it.

It was not until recently, however, that Driscoll decided to ask the proffered favor. He requested to be taken aboard a battleship going through the Panama canal, which, he said, he longed to see before he died. Arrangements for the trip have been completed, and the next warship that passes through the great waterway will carry the old veteran as a passenger.
